

A Test Drive

Make sure you have this new code added to your file, and then give it a test run.

Here's our first run; remember to try it a few times.

Python 3.6.0 Shell

The computer chooses scissors

>>>

84 Chapter 3

Python 3.9.0 Shell

File Edit Shell Debug Options Window Help

Python 3.9.0 (tags/v3.9.0:9cf6752, Oct 5 2020, 15:34:40) [MSC v.1927 64 bit (AMD64)] on win32

Type "help", "copyright", "credits" or "license()" for more information.

>>>

= RESTART: C:/Users/Mainur/AppData/Local/Programs/Python/Python39/rock_paper_scissors.py

The computer chooses scissors

>>>

= RESTART: C:/Users/Mainur/AppData/Local/Programs/Python/Python39/rock_paper_scissors.py

The computer chooses rock

>>>

= RESTART: C:/Users/Mainur/AppData/Local/Programs/Python/Python39/rock_paper_scissors.py

The computer chooses rock

>>>

= RESTART: C:/Users/Mainur/AppData/Local/Programs/Python/Python39/rock_paper_scissors.py

The computer chooses rock

>>> |

rock_paper_scissors.py - C:/Users/Mainur/AppData/Local/Programs/Python/Python39/

File Edit Format Run Options Window Help

```
import random
random_choice = random.randint(0,2)
if random_choice == 0:
    computer_choice = 'rock'
elif random_choice == 1:
    computer_choice = 'paper'
else:
    computer_choice = 'scissors'
print('The computer chooses', computer_choice)
```